AKA Sean John Combs

Born: 4-Nov-1969

Birthplace: Harlem, NY

Gender: Male

Race or Ethnicity: Black

Sexual orientation: Straight

Occupation: Music Producer, Rapper

Nationality: United States

Executive summary: Can't Nobody Hold Me Down

The non-musical shenanigans took a toll on the rapper's reputation, who had already been under fire for his immoderate reliance on samples in his music. In 2001 he changed his rap moniker from "Puff Daddy" to "P Diddy" and released P. Diddy & The Bad Boy Family: The Saga Continues. By the release of his next effort, We Invented the Remix (2002), a lot of his credibility (in the music business at least) had been regained. This of course could only mean one thing: an acting career. Appearances in films such as Made and Monster's Ball have taken place, with more on the way.

In 2005 Combs altered his stage name again, performing as just plain "Diddy" and explaining (presumably in jest) that "the P was getting between me and my fans". He promptly faced legal action from a British performer who had been using the name Diddy for his entire career, leading to a settlement whereby, for several years, he called himself "Diddy" everywhere in the world except in the United Kingdom, where he was still billed as "P. Diddy". He has also briefly gone by the stage name "Diddy Dirty-Money," and from 2011-14 he asked to be called "Swag," before returning to his 1990s moniker of "Puff Daddy."

Combs' first musical outing was 1996's single "Can't Nobody Hold Me Down," which peaked at number one on the Hot 100. He released an album, No Way Out, in 1997. The album underwent significant modifications during its production due to the tragic death of Biggie Smalls earlier that year. The single "I'll be Missing You" became the first song to ever debut at number one on the Hot 100.

In 2001, Combs stopped using the stage name Puff Daddy and changed his persona to "P. Diddy," and recorded a gospel album titled Thank You. Though recording on the album was completed in 2003, Thank You hasn't been released as of the time of this writing. He continued managing artists under Bad Boy Records and released an album called The Saga Continues. He was also in the halftime show for Super Bowl 38.

Diddy released the mixtape MMM in 2014, returning to his "Puff Daddy" stage name (and once again confusing fans, who now just used all of his various stage names interchangeably). In 2017, he announced he'd changed his stage name again to "Love," or "Brother Love." He waffled on the name change, saying he was joking, before committing to it in 2022.

Combs' mother raised him Roman Catholic. He was an altar boy while he was growing up. In 1987 he graduated from Mount Saint Michael Academy, an all-boys Catholic school. During this time, he earned the nickname "Puff" because of his tendency to "huff and puff" when incensed.

During an interview with Howard Stern in 2016, Combs' former roommate, Usher, told the radio host that Diddy's lifestyle was "pretty wild" in the early 90s. He would throw huge parties, such as an AIDS fundraiser with Heavy D in 1991 that was so oversold that a stampede took place, killing nine people.

R. Kelly Speaks on Diddy's Situation from Prison: 'I Don't Believe None of This'

April 1, 2024 / Shawn Grant

R. Kelly hopped on Clubhouse to talk with Wack 100. Speaking on the raids of Diddy's homes, Kelly provides a warning to those making jokes: "they ass could be next."

"That's what's so fucked up about it," R. Kelly said. "They so stupid they don't even realize the moves that's going on. I don't believe none of this shit. You could tell me about Puffy, you could about anybody. You could tell me on the news, the weather, the sky is blue, I'm not gonna believe the shit. Cause I'm in it now, and I know what they did."

You can hear from R. Kelly and Wack 100 below.

Diddy and R. Kelly have collaborated on several popular songs that have made a significant impact in the music industry. The most notable collaborations include:

- "Satisfy You": Released in 1999 as part of Diddy's album Forever, this track features R. Kelly and showcases their combined talents in a sultry R&B style. It remains one of their most recognized works together <sup>2</sup> <sup>4</sup> <sup>5</sup>.
- "I Need a Girl (Part 1 & 2)": Both parts of this song feature contributions from R. Kelly, with the tracks being significant hits in the early 2000s. They highlight themes of romance and attraction, further establishing their musical chemistry <sup>1</sup> <sup>2</sup>.
- "Come to Me": This song is another collaboration that emphasizes Diddy's hip-hop roots while incorporating R. Kelly's smooth R&B vocals, contributing to its popularity <sup>1</sup>.

These collaborations not only reflect their individual styles but also represent a pivotal moment in late 90s and early 2000s music, blending hip-hop and R&B influences.

The Brooklyn detention center housing Sean "Diddy" Combs amid his sex trafficking arrest and upcoming trial has held a who's who of celebrity criminals.

Combs is being held in solitude within the Special Housing Unit at Brooklyn's Metropolitan Detention Center, a federal jail that previously housed R. Kelly before and during the trial of the disgraced R&B singer, who was sentenced to 30 years in prison for sex trafficking and racketeering in 2022.

Kelly has since been moved and, as of last year, is being housed at a North Carolina federal correctional institution, according to The Associated Press.

Other high-profile inmates at the facility include Jeffrey Epstein associate Ghislaine Maxwell, who in 2022 was sentenced to 20 years in prison for helping him sexually abuse underage girls. Maxwell has also since been moved, and is currently being housed in an "honor dorm" at a Florida federal prison.

Rev. Bernard Lynch, S.M.A. – Assignment History

Summary of Case: Bernard Lynch was ordained in his native Ireland for the Society of African Missions in 1971. After a short stint in Zambia, he was sent to New York to study counseling and psychotherapy. While in New York he assisted at a Bronx parish and was chaplain for a private boys' school, Mount St. Michael's. He also became involved with the support group for gay Catholics, Dignity, and ministered in the 1980s to men dying of AIDS.

In July 1987 Lynch became the subject of a criminal investigation into allegations of child sexual abuse, after Mount St. Michael's teachers filed a complaint that he and acting principal, Marist Brother Timothy Brady, were possibly molesting students. Both were charged; Brady was convicted. Lynch was tried in April 1989 on charges of molesting one Mount St. Michael's student in 1985 or 1986. Lynch's attorney said it was the boy who made a pass at Lynch. Lynch strongly denied the accusation and claimed he was the victim of a witch-hunt by the church because of his AIDS ministry. He was found not guilty.

Lynch moved in 1992 to England where he started a ministry for closeted gay priests. He was expelled from his order in 2011 and, in a 2012 memoir, he announced that he had been married to a man for fourteen years. In April 2017 Lynch works independently as a counselor and spiritual director. He has not been laicized.

Mr. Gentile identified one of the men as the Rev. Bernard Lynch, 41 years old, and a former campus chaplain. An Irish national, he is believed to be somewhere in Ireland. He was indicted on two counts of first-degree sexual abuse, two counts of third-degree sexual abuse and one count of endangering the welfare of a child.

Mr. Gentile said Brother Timothy Brady, 41, the acting principal when the incidents are said to have occurred, was charged with one count each of third-degree sexual abuse and endangering the welfare of a child. Brother Brady "was removed last summer" to a Marist retreat in Arizona, Mr. Gentile said.

Brother Anthony Iazzetti, principal of the school, said school officials fully cooperated with investigators from the joint Sexual Exploited Child Task Force. He called the indictments by the Bronx County grand jury "a source of grave concern."

School officials said Brother Brady had left at the end of the 1986-87 academic year but remained a member of the Marist Brothers religious order, which operates the school.

A Roman Catholic priest and a Marist brother are facing charges involving sexual abuse of students at a parochial preparatory school in the Bronx with which they were formerly connected, the Bronx District Attorney, Paul T. Gentile, announced yesterday.

He said the indictment resulted from an investigation by the Federal and city authorities begun last July because of complaints from lay teachers at the school, Mount St. Michael Academy. The school is in the Wakefield section, its large campus bordering on the Mount Vernon city line.

Mr. Gentile identified one of the men as the Rev. Bernard Lynch, 41 years old, and a former campus chaplain. An Irish national, he is believed to be somewhere in Ireland. He was indicted on two counts of first-degree sexual abuse, two counts of third-degree sexual abuse and one count of endangering the welfare of a child.

Priest, Marist Brother Accused of Sex with Boys

By Jeffrey K. Parker
United Press International
May 13, 1988

A Roman Catholic priest and a Marist brother were indicted Friday on charges they sexually abused three teenage boys at Mount St. Michael Academy, a boys' high school where they worked, Bronx prosecutors said.

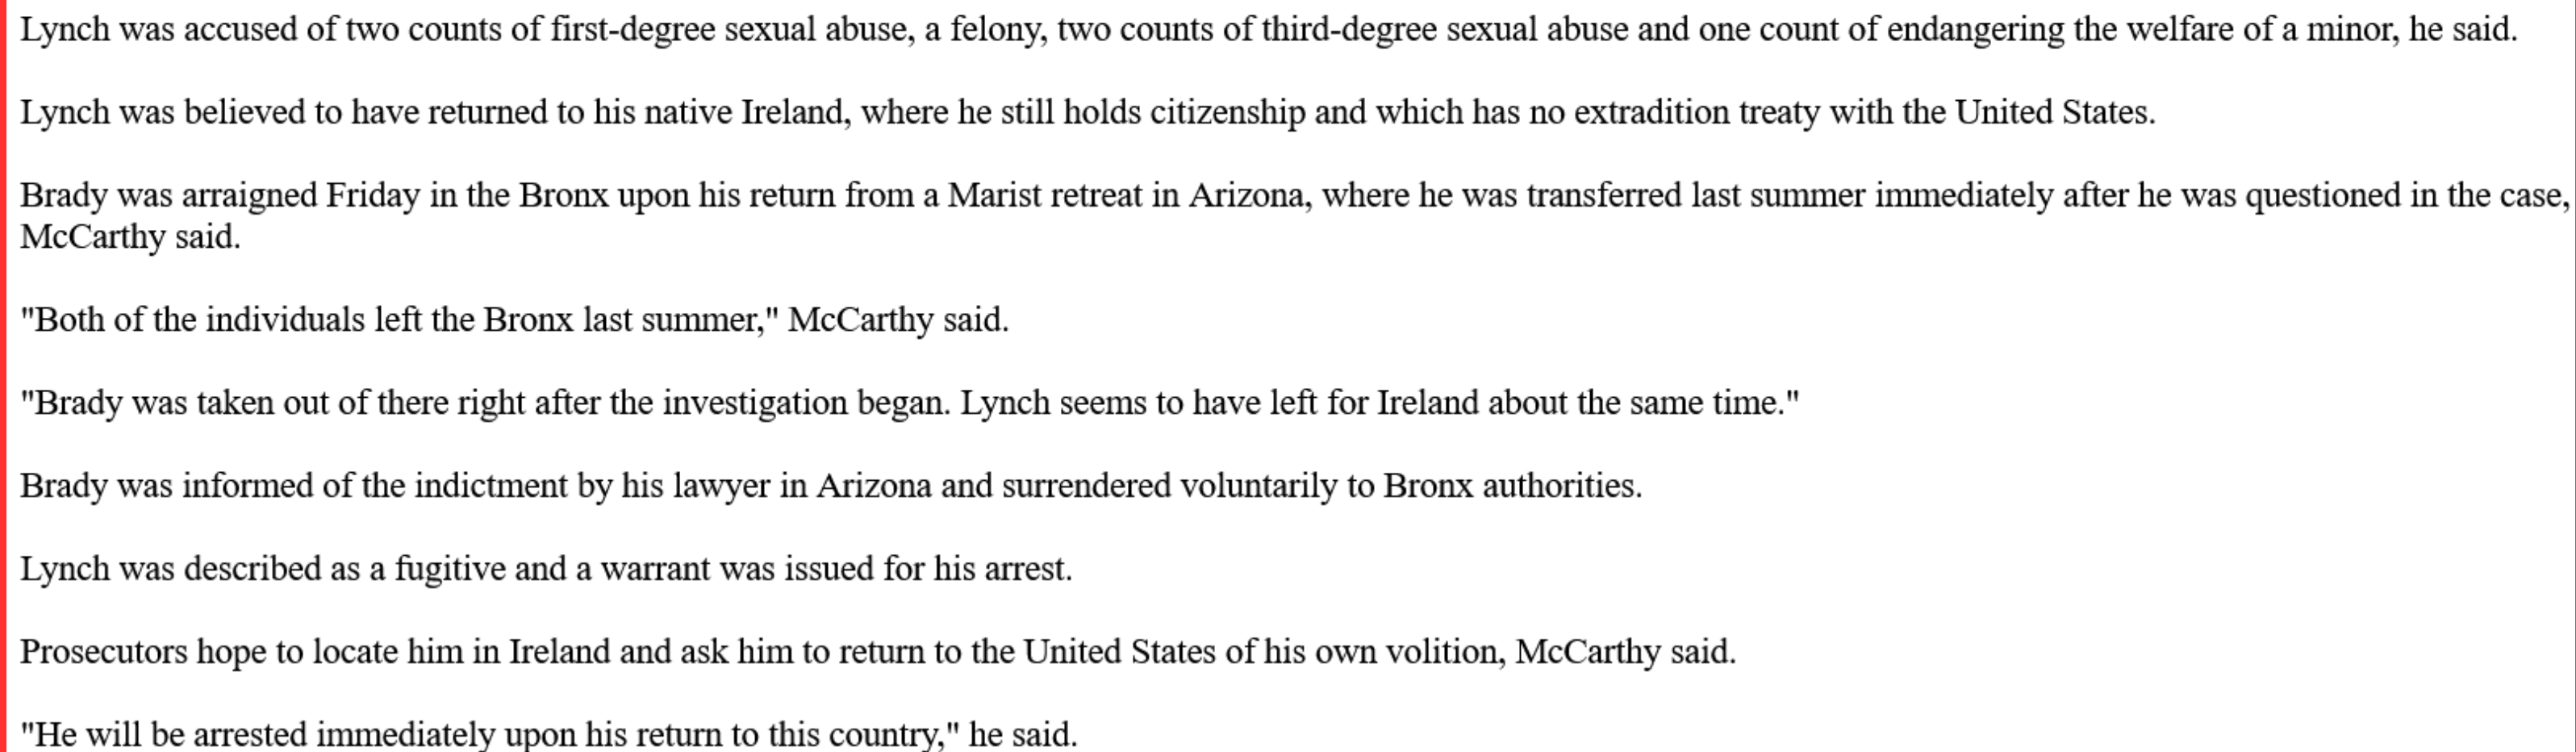

The Rev. Bernard Lynch, 41, of 2728 Henry Hudson Parkway in the Bronx and Timothy Brady, 41, of 252 School St., Watertown, Mass., were accused of molesting three 14-year-old boys at the school for "a couple of months" ending in July 1987, said Ed McCarthy, a spokesman for the Bronx district attorney.

Lynch, who was still at large and believed to be in Ireland, was the campus chaplain at the academy on Murdock Avenue in the Bronx, and Brady was acting principal, McCarthy said.

The alleged abuse was reported by school staff members.

"We got wind of it when the lay teachers complained that they thought something was going on at the school," he said. "The investigators went in and questioned people and interrogated possible victims."

The Sexually Exploited Child task force, an operation coordinated by the FBI and New York Police Department, determined that three 14-year-old youths had been sexually molested by the two clerics and charges were prepared, he said.

Lynch was accused of two counts of first-degree sexual abuse, a felony, two counts of third-degree sexual abuse and one count of endangering the welfare of a minor, he said.

Lynch was believed to have returned to his native Ireland, where he still holds citizenship and which has no extradition treaty with the United States.

Brady was arraigned Friday in the Bronx upon his return from a Marist retreat in Arizona, where he was transferred last summer immediately after he was questioned in the case, McCarthy said.

"Both of the individuals left the Bronx last summer," McCarthy said.

"Brady was taken out of there right after the investigation began. Lynch seems to have left for Ireland about the same time."

Brady was informed of the indictment by his lawyer in Arizona and surrendered voluntarily to Bronx authorities.

Lynch was described as a fugitive and a warrant was issued for his arrest.

Prosecutors hope to locate him in Ireland and ask him to return to the United States of his own volition, McCarthy said.

"He will be arrested immediately upon his return to this country," he said.

Summary of Sexual Abuse Allegations Against Father Bernard Lynch:

In 1987, Fr. Bernard Lynch became the subject of a criminal investigation into allegations of child sexual abuse of minor boys at Mount St. Michael Academy in the Bronx, New York between 1985-1986. Several teachers at Mount St. Michael's filed a complaint that he and the acting principal at the time, Marist Br. Timothy Brady, were possibly molesting students.

Lynch was indicted in 1988 and tried in 1989. Lynch claimed he was subject to a witch-hunt because of his AIDS ministry. He was found not guilty by the court.

According to media reports, Lynch moved to London in 1992 and started a ministry for closeted gay priests. He was removed from the priesthood in 2011. Lynch announced in a 2012 memoir that he married a man 14 years prior. As of 2017, Lynch was working as a counselor and spiritual director in London. In 2019, another lawsuit was filed claiming abuse of another boy, age 16, that was said to have occurred from 1978-1979 in the Bronx, NY. No other details have been released yet.

Father Bernard Lynch: 'The Vatican has told them to get rid of me'

He claims that half of all Catholic priests are gay – and has himself been married to his husband for 14 years. He believes celibacy is to blame for many of the Church's problems – and that the Vatican must take responsibility for the paedophilia in its midst. Is it any wonder so many people want rid of Father Bernard Lynch?

Peter Stanford • Friday 06 April 2012 15:11 BST • Comments

<https://www.independent.co.uk/news/people/profiles/father-bernard-lynch-the-vatican-has-told-them-to-get-rid-of-me-7619004.html>

Father Lynch says: 'I can go into confession and say I have been in every sauna and bath-house and sex club in London 10 times a week and I can get absolved from my sins, but if I go in and say, 'I have been in love with a man for 19 years, married for 14 (Nick Ballon)

April 2012

There is an appalling irony that the same Church that employed false charges of child abuse against a dissident priest in 1989 was, throughout the following decade and right up to the present day, to be overwhelmed itself with similar accusations. Only in its case, many turned out to be true, and had been swept under the carpet by bishops and cardinals for years, if not decades. "To me," Lynch reflects, "a lot of the abuse of children by priests in the Church is a result and consequence of sexually arrested development in priests. It is not paedophilia, and that is not to take from the crime and the terrible harm done to children in this way. When you go into seminary at 14 or 16, you are arrested in your sexual development. From that time on, everything sexual is sin. Sex is really not integrated in the way normal boys and girls do as they grow up. And so priests stop growing sexually. And when they start growing again at the ripe old age of 50, they start off where they left off, as a 14-year-old looking for 14-year-olds."

<https://www.independent.co.uk/news/people/profiles/father-bernard-lynch-the-vatican-has-told-them-to-get-rid-of-me-7619004.html>

April 2012

He seems to be suggesting that the celibacy rule for priests lies at the heart of this scandal that has rocked the entire Church. But surely many abusers are "happily married men"? "I believe," he replies, "that celibacy is certainly part of the problem. I'm not excusing abuse of children. On the contrary, I am holding people to account, but it is not only the perpetrators who are guilty. The Church hierarchy has to be held to account because of how it trains its priests."

In the counselling work he now does with gay priests – he has worked with more than 200, he says – time and again he comes up against a fault-line in a Church that condemns homosexuality but has significant numbers of closeted gay men among its clergy. The way it is dealt with institutionally is to keep quiet; but that has never been Lynch's way. "I can go into confession and say I have been in every sauna and bath-house and sex club in London 10 times a week and I can get absolved from my sins, but if I go in and say, 'I have been in love with a man for 19 years, married for 14,' there's no absolution. That's the sickness in my Church."
